Challenges

1 What significant economic, social or environmental obstacles have you encountered in the production, procurement, use and/or promotion of CSPO and what efforts did you make to mitigate or resolve them?

A challenge has been the availability of segregated Palm oil through our chosen supply base for use within our raw materials. The limited availability has also driven significant price premiums for such materials initiating a reluctance to adopt within the supply chain.

2 How has your organization supported the vision of RSPO to transform markets? (e.g. Funding; Engagement with key stakeholders; Business to business education/outreach)

We have continued to work closely with our supply base and communicated a clear commitment to source 100% certifed sutainable Palm products with a desire to increase our use of physically segregated Palm. This is included within our Terms and Conditions of trade with suppliers. In support, Hovis has taken the decision to pay a premium to source its largest volume palm containing ingredient through a segregated supply chain model. Hovis has actively participated in a retailer initiative to develop a progressive palm policy for its supply base.
