Challenges

1. Significant economic, social or environmental obstacles

RSPO P&C requirements far exceed local legal requirements, generating confusion for local stakeholders, in particular with regards to the areas they consider should be developed while the company maintains them as conservation areas.

The continuous improvement of company practices, and the adoption of new, stricter P&C create a widening gap for new employees and contractors between their "normal" practices and the practices of the company.

There are hidden compliance costs and barriers, as the "supply" of qualified professionals and consultants is limited.

The above affect our competitivity against "conventional" plantation companies.

2. How would you qualify RSPO standards as compared to other parallel standards?

3. How has your organization supported the vision of RSPO to transform markets?

SIPEF is actively participating to the RSPO working groups and committees : member of the Trade & Traceability committee, co-chair of the BHCV working group and Compensation Task Force, as well as member of the P&C review Task Force.

SIPEF engages with constructive NGO, journalists, decision-makers and academics interested in the palm oil sector, its impacts and its future.
