

A Buyer's Guide to the New RSPO Credits

RSPO Credits is the new name for the RSPO Book & Claim supply chain model. This supply chain model enables you to start supporting the production of sustainable palm if you are new to the sustainable market, or if you buy fractions or derivatives of palm oil or palm kernel oil or product containing these fractions or derivatives. Growers and crushers can only sell certified oil palm products through one of the supply chain models.

By the purchase of RSPO Credits, you directly support the growers who have changed their practices to meet all the RSPO Principles and Criteria to produce certified sustainable oil palm products. The model also supports smallholders who may not have access to the market for certified sustainable oil palm products.

All RSPO members including end product manufacturers and retailers can cover the use of oil palm products by purchasing RSPO Credits based on a one-to-one ratio. For oleochemicals and derivatives, please use the ratios explained in the RSPO Rules for Physical Transition of Oleochemicals and its Derivatives (www.rspo.org).

Here is a quick guide to get started...
