Background

The RSPo Labour Auditing Guidance was developed in response to a call from stakeholders to enhance assessment components and improve auditors’ capacity to evaluate labour and other social aspects. The development process began in 2017 and involved several rounds of review and consultation with stakeholders. Initially named “RSPo P&C Social Auditing Protocol”, the title was later changed to “RSPo Labour Auditing Guidance” to align with the RSPo Principles & Criteria 2018. Despite difficulties caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, pilot test for the third draft document was successfully conducted by CBs alongside regular RSPo P&C audits.

The guidance document was then further strengthened based on the findings of the pilot test and underwent a final targeted stakeholder consultation. Ultimately, in September 2022, the Assurance Standing Committee (ASC) endorsed the RSPo Labour Auditing Guidance based on the RSPo Principles & Criteria 2018. The guidance is voluntary and intended to be used for 18 months beginning from the announcement date on the RSPo website (21 November 2022).

The intent of the document is to improve auditability of labour requirements of the RSPo P&C and provide certification bodies (CBs) with a clear methodology that ensures a consistent system and approach to plan and execute RSPo P&C audits.

Objectives

Following the announcement and publication of the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance on 21 November 2022, the Secretariat organised a series of workshops for auditors from RSPO-accredited certification bodies.

The workshops aimed to fulfill the following objectives:

- 1 To socialise the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance to auditors from RSPO-accredited certification bodies.
- 2 To promote the use of the voluntary guidance document among auditors to strengthen their labour auditing skills.
- 3 To simulate real audit scenarios to identify potential issues and provide auditors with guidance on addressing them.

Details of the Workshops

In total, four workshops were conducted to facilitate the implementation of the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance. Of these, three were held in-person for auditors in Indonesia, Malaysia, and Ghana, while another was done virtually for auditors located elsewhere.

Agendas

As each workshop had a varying duration, adjustments were made to the agendas to ensure that each session was able to effectively convey the contents of the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance while also actively engaging the audience. For instance, the virtual workshop included more time for Q&A sessions, while the in-person workshops involved more role play activities and group discussions.

RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance Presentation

The primary objective of the workshops was to socialise the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance by providing in-depth explanations of each section in the guidance document. The main contents of the workshops are shared below with selected snapshots of the slides presented to the participants.

Part 1: Application and Signing of Contract

Gathering relevant information during the application stage is crucial for CBs to understand risk factors before conducting any RSPO audits. Information such as the supply base distribution, stakeholder list, and workforce details should be requested and considered to ensure adequate timing for all audit activities.

1.1 - 1.4 Application and Signing of Contract

01	Location (GPS Coordinates)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Latitude & longitude (degree, minutes or decimal) Addresses (mills and supply base)
02	Supply Base Maps	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Demographics and understanding distance between locations
03	List of Stakeholders	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Direct stakeholders Indirect stakeholders Governmental Agencies NGOs
04	Workforce Information	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Total numbers Gender distribution Type of work Etc2. (follow document)

Review the above information thoroughly to ensure adequate timing for all audit activities. In general, allocate at least 20 minutes for each interview (excluding travel time and setup)*

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Part 2.1 - 2.2: Audit Plan Development

2.1 - 2.2 Audit Plan Development

15%	Management systems and processes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Map applicability with RSPO Principle 6 Understand recruitment and payroll process
25%	Worker and management interviews	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sampling Methodology
15%	Audit programme	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Dates Locations

Adapt plan to operational practicality and suitability and adhere to all health and safety precautions

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

During audit plan development, CBs should ensure all labour conditions and processes are captured. The lead auditor should consider requested documents, management systems, expected interviews, audit programme, roles and responsibilities, and adapt the plan for practicality and safety.

RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance Presentation

Part 2.3 - 2.4: Initial Research and Offsite Desk Review

During initial research for the audited Management Unit, factors such as vulnerable groups, history of complaints, and demographics of workers should be considered.

The CB should allow 1-2 days for desk review and request documents at least 2 months before the audit date.

2.3 Initial Research

- Conduct desk review to obtain preliminary information on the Management Unit that will be audited.
- Perform initial research via digital and/or traditional sources (e.g. web-based, newspapers, journals, social media).
- Record and maintain results of the initial research for each Management Unit.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

2.4.1 - 2.4.3 Desk Review (Offsite)

- Initial research for the audited Management Unit should include:
 - Identified vulnerable groups
 - Past legal actions

• Allocate 1 - 2 assessment days for desk review

- Request for information at least two (2) months before the audit.
- Management unit to respond at least one (1) month before the audit.
- If not, the audit should be postponed and action should be taken as per the CB's internal procedures and/or contract with the Management Unit.

- On-site audit should commence within six (6) months of the completion of the offsite desk review.
- If not, a new offsite desk review should be performed.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Part 2.5: Sampling Methodology

The audit team should select a representative cross-section of the workforce for sampling and control the selection to avoid coaching, using a formula based on the square root of total workers, and separately calculating vulnerable groups if identified during the on-site audit.

2.5.1 - 2.5.8 Sampling Methodology

- Ensure sampling represents a cross section of the workforce based on relevant demographic characteristics.
- Keep control of sample selection. Do it as late as possible - minimise risk of workers being coached.
- Calculate sample using this formula: $x = \sqrt{N}$ (where N= number of total workers).
- Calculate a separate sample set by taking the square root of each identified vulnerable group.
- If vulnerable groups are identified during audit execution, request data on total number of identified vulnerable groups within the workforce. If they do not have such data, the auditor should interview the identified vulnerable worker.
- Workers chosen for interviews should represent different types of workers.
- Interview 50% of sampled workers individually and 50% in groups (may be adjusted based on specific circumstances).
- Consider using a translator(s) or interpreter(s) who are independent of the Management Unit being assessed.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance Presentation

Part 2.6: Stakeholder Consultation

Auditors are encouraged to conduct stakeholder consultations with those listed by the Management Unit and other relevant stakeholders based on their own risk evaluation. They should also maintain an updated list of stakeholders along with all written or verbal submissions, to be considered in their audit plans and explained in audit reports.

Findings

During this session, a few participants from each workshop were invited to share their experiences when conducting stakeholder consultations. A brief overview of their sharing is provided below:

- Lack of stakeholder engagement, resulting in a lack of input or feedback.
- Inadequate communication, leading to misunderstandings.
- Conflict between workers and companies, especially in the presence of local government officials.
- Monopolisation of talking time by certain officials, resulting in other stakeholders being unable to provide input.
- Women may not have the opportunity to speak due to cultural or societal barriers.
- Intimidation from stakeholders may create safety concerns, thus making it difficult for auditors to conduct consultations effectively.
- Certain stakeholders may reject auditors' requests for who should be involved in the consultation process.
- Certain issues encountered during stakeholder consultations may cause deviation from the original sample requirements.

Part 2.7: Audit Agenda Preparation

Auditors should develop an audit agenda based on the outcome of the offsite desk review prior to conducting an on-site audit.

Note: A practical exercise was conducted on audit agenda preparation (refer to page 19).

RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance Presentation

Part 3.1: Opening Meeting

The audit team should follow generic requirements in the ISO/IEC 17021 series and RSPO P&C Certification Systems document and consider other aspects such as language needs, list of attendees, compliance with applicable laws, logistics and communication needs when conducting opening meetings.

3.1 Opening Meeting

General Requirements

- Follow ISO 17021/17065 series and the RSPO P&C Certification Systems document. In addition, consider the following:
 - Use language understandable by the majority. Consider translator/interpreter service.
 - Invite senior management, personnel responsible for key functions and processes e.g. payroll, recruitment, accounts, human resources and trade union/worker reps.
 - Inform the importance of attendance at the closing meeting and invite all key personnel.
 - Emphasise the need for openness, honesty and transparency.
 - Check and verify any changes from what has been communicated during the Application and/or Desk Review.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Part 3.2: Guidance for Verification of Principle 6

To ensure accurate and conclusive results, a triangulation methodology involving interviews, documentation review and site observations should be applied to assess conformance to Principle 6 of the P&C.

3.2 Guidance for Verification of Principle 6

- For Criteria 6.5 (no harassment/abuse in the workplace and reproductive rights are protected) and 6.6 (no forms of forced or trafficked labour is used), cross-check documents requested with the sampled interviewees.
- For Criteria 6.4 (prohibition against child labour), ask probing questions to distinguish between actual child labour, young workers conducting hazardous work, school absenteeism, and children who accompany parents (for non-working purposes).
- Observe workers' reaction and gesture to identify signs of fear, reluctance or hesitation towards answering particular questions.
- Auditors may randomly interview individual meeting attendees to confirm if the meetings were held and cross-check information in meeting records.
- Documents requested at the Offsite Desk Review stage may be requested again during audit execution.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Part 3.3: Site/Field Tour

3.3 Site/Field Tour

- Limit to a maximum of two management representatives to accompany auditors.
- Ensure strict compliance with safety rules.
- Be aware of site traffic conditions.
- Ensure all important areas are identified and covered. This includes
 - operation/production areas
 - store/warehouses
 - facilities and/or amenities provided for the workforce
- Evaluate the following aspects:
 - Understand the work being done at the audit site
 - Evaluate health and safety practices
 - Identify potentially vulnerable workers and/or family member(s) living in the Management Unit site
 - Observe management systems and practices, including atmosphere between management, supervisors and workers
 - Note any physical observable evidence related to P&C requirements.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

During site visit, auditors should limit the number of management representatives accompanying them, comply with safety rules, and cover all important areas while paying attention to aspects such as health and safety practices and identifying potentially vulnerable workers.

RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance Presentation

Part 3.4: Interviews with Workers

3.4 Interviews with Workers

Obtain information from workers to corroborate facts obtained from document review, discussions with management and staff, a review of physical conditions at the organisation and any other observations noted by the audit team.

Good Practices For Worker Interviews

1. Set the context of issues to be covered and read out relevant statements, exploring agreements or disagreements.
2. Start with the least sensitive topics first (such as health and safety), followed by the more sensitive (such as discrimination and sexual harassment) to create a safe space and build rapport.
3. To discuss sensitive issues during face-to-face interviews, open the discussion with topics such as their life experiences, before asking the more difficult questions.
4. Where necessary, take breaks during the interview and give workers time to collect themselves. Reinforce their coping strategies and let them know that they are helping others who may be going through similar experiences.

Source: Adapted from BSR Gender Data Impact Framework

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

The audit team should develop an interview questions template for workers. The RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance provided reference for the verification of Principle 6 and recommended practices for worker interviews.

Part 3.5: Closing Meeting

During the closing meeting, CBs are encouraged to present findings related to labour indicators, ensure the same attendees as the opening meeting and conduct it in a language understood by the majority, using a translator/interpreter service if necessary.

Part 4: Audit Reporting

4.1 Audit Reporting

In addition to requirements of the RSPO P&C Certification Systems document, you should also include:

- A record of interviews conducted, including categories of workers spoken to and their genders; number of individual and group interviews; number of workers in each group; and location of interviews.
- A table indicating number of workers, job scope (field, non-field), gender (male, female) categories (permanent, full time, casual/ seasonal and day labour), local, transmigrant and migrant workers, at the audit site.
- The above table should include workers at each audited sites, such as mill, estates and supply base that are covered under the scope of the audit.
- Names of recognised trade unions at the audit site and worker representatives as well as how they are elected and their full names.
- The current CBA with the effective date and the period of validity.
- A table noting the number, types of subcontractors working site, nature of activities and the number of their workers.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Among others, CBs should include a record of interviews and a table documenting the number of workers at each audited site in their report. All evidence should be maintained for at least one certification cycle.

4.2 Audit Record-Keeping

- The CB should maintain all records of evidence gathered during an audit. Pictures, audit notes, checklists, identity of workers interviewed and any other information collected from the audit site should be considered as audit evidence.
- Audit evidence should be available in the file of the Management Unit and should be kept for at least one certification cycle (5 years).

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Practical Exercises

To fulfill the third objective of these workshops, i.e. to simulate real audit scenarios to identify potential issues and provide auditors with guidance on addressing them, the Secretariat designed several practical exercises. These exercises were only conducting during the physical workshops and modified to fit the context of each workshop.

Exercise 1: Preparing Certification Proposal

Role Play 1 - Certification Proposal

Practical Exercises

Exercise 2: Conducting Initial Research

Exercise 2: Conducting Initial Research

- You have 20 minutes to conduct research on the company that was assigned to your group below.
- Write down your findings on the flip chart paper provided.
- Take turns to present your findings (5 minutes per group).

Group	Group 1	Group 2	Group 3	Group 4	Group 5	Group 6	Group 7	Group 8
RSPO Member Company	PT Nabatindo Karya Utama	PT Farinda Bersaudara	PT Nabire Baru	PT Agro Kati Lama	PT Socfin Indonesia	PT Perkebunan Nusantara III	PT Ramajaya Pramukti	PT Wahana Prima Sejati

Random growers were selected from the RSPO Complaints Tracker. Participants were then tasked to conduct research on the companies assigned to their groups using all sources that they are familiar with.

Note: Due to time constraints, this exercise was not included in the Accra workshop.

Findings

In addition to official sources, familiarity with social media such as TikTok and Instagram helps auditors uncover other potential issues

RSPO Complaints Tracker is one of the main sources of reference for auditors when conducting research

Initial research helps auditors determine additional info and documents such as past NC records to be requested before the on-site audit

Practical Exercises

Exercise 3: Preparing Audit Agenda

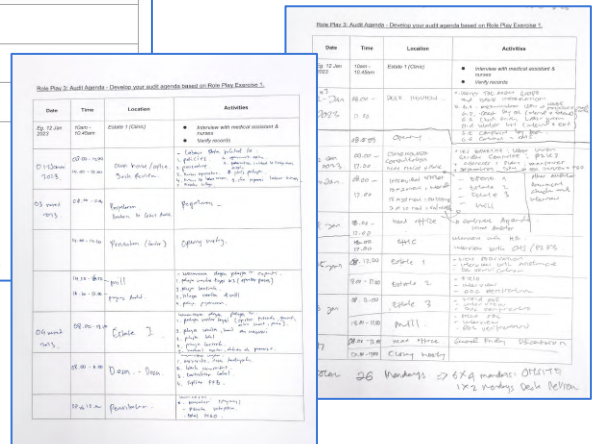

Role Play 3 - Audit Agenda

Date	Time	Location	Activities
eg. 12 Jan 2023	10am - 10.45am	Estate 1 (Clinic)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interview with medical assistant & nurses Verify records

Individually, please develop your audit agenda based on Role Play Exercise 1.

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop for CB Auditors only. Always refer to the full document for official reference

Participants were given a template to develop their audit agenda based on the certification proposal prepared earlier in the workshop.

Samples of audit agenda preparation from the workshops

Findings

days

were allocated for offsite desk review as recommended

Total interview time was calculated based on the recommended

20 mins

per interview

Trade union and gender committee were the most often identified parties for stakeholder consultation

Participants are aware that labour auditing should only be conducted by social auditors

Practical Exercises

Exercise 4: Preparing Checklist

Participants worked in groups to go through the checklist for Verification of Principle 6 in the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance and come up with additional suggestions based on their auditing experiences.

Note: Due to time constraints, this exercise was only conducted in the Bogor workshop.

Role Play 4 - Checklist

In addition to the Checklist given in the Labour Auditing Guidance, I would add more at...

Break into 4 groups. Then present your additional suggestions for the following:

- Group 6: 6.1 (Discrimination)
- Group 5: 6.2 (Pay & Conditions)
- Group 4: 6.3 (Freedom of Association & Collective Bargaining)
- Group 3: 6.4 (Child Labour)
- Group 2: 6.6 (Forced Labour) & 6.7 (Health & Safety)
- Group 1: 6.5 (Harassment and Protection of Reproductive Rights)

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop for CB Auditors only. Always refer to the full document for official reference

Practical Exercises

Exercise 5: Conducting Interviews

Exercise 5: Conducting Interviews

1. Earlier today, we notified participants who were randomly selected as interviewees for this exercise.
2. For interviewees, cue cards were given to guide them on the roles they are going to play.
3. The rest of the participants will be divided into two groups. Each group will appoint auditors to conduct two of the interview situations below (3 auditors per interview).
4. You now have 20 minutes to prepare for the interviews.
5. For the purpose of this exercise, each interview session will be held for 15 minutes.
6. Please pay attention to each situation as we will conduct a review of this exercise later.

Situation 1: Interview with harvesters

Situation 3: Interview with mill workers

Situation 2: Interview with sprayers

Situation 4: Interview with management team

This presentation is for the purpose of the Labour Auditing Guidance Workshop only. Always refer to the full document for official reference.

Participants were randomly selected to role play the “workers” for each situation and given cue cards for their roles which include issues such as minor and undocumented workers, sexual abuse, drug use, insufficient PPE and intimidation. Similarly, a number of participants were tasked to role play the auditors, without knowing the issues experienced by each “worker”.

Note: Due to time constraints, only two mock worker interviews were done in the Accra workshop, whereby one session was in English, and the other was in French.

Practical Exercises

Findings

- Auditors can develop interviewees' trust by:
 - Informing interviewees of their independence from the company, especially in remote locations where they may be required to travel in company vehicles.
 - Assuring workers that they will not face penalties, such as salary cuts, for the time spent on interviews.
 - Speaking in a friendly, less formal manner, using local dialect or slang if appropriate.
 - Sharing their phone number so interviewees can report any repercussions or provide additional information.
 - Limiting note-taking during interviews, particularly when handling highly sensitive information.
- Certain behaviours may indicate underlying issues within the management unit being audited:
 - Interviewees appearing unable to focus, displaying awkward behaviours, or seeming too tired.
 - Interviewees being overly quiet or defensive when asked questions.
 - One or more interviewees dominating the conversation and speaking over others.
- In situations where some interviewees display the behaviours mentioned above, auditors may need to conduct a one-to-one session with them.
- If a management representative interrupts an interview session, auditors must insist that they leave to provide privacy for the interviewees.
- During group interviews, auditors should ensure that they address all interviewees and avoid focusing solely on one person.
- Interviews also provide an opportunity for auditors to inform workers of their rights, for instance, when it comes to the provision of personal protective equipment (PPE) and the terms in their employment contracts.

Video Sharing for Virtual Participants

As practical exercises could not be carried out during the virtual workshop, the Secretariat provided the virtual audience with recorded snippets of the exercises from the Bogor workshop. These videos are accompanied by English subtitles and can be viewed through the links below:

Questions and Answers

At every workshop, the Secretariat ensured that participants were provided with an opportunity to address any queries pertaining to the information presented in the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance. Selected questions and answers from the workshops have been arranged into various topics below.

Pre-Audit Preparation

Question: Since auditors need to request employee data during the desk review, should companies identify vulnerable groups before the audit?

Answer: While auditors may use information gathered during the desk review to determine sampling and audit days, it is important to note that this information may not be comprehensive. Therefore, auditors should review the list of workers again during onsite audits to identify any vulnerable groups that may have been left out.

Audit Duration

Question: Why is it important to conduct the onsite audit within six months after the desk review?

Answer: The information gathered during the desk review may become outdated if too much time passes before the onsite audit. For instance, the number of workers may have changed or new complaints may have arisen. By conducting the onsite audit within six months, auditors can ensure that they have the most up-to-date and accurate information possible.

Question: How do we convince clients about the additional man-days?

Answer: CBs need to highlight the benefits of implementing the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance such as improving labour practices and protecting workers' rights, in order to get clients' approval. Through our practical exercises, it has also been proven that only two to three additional man-days are required to effectively implement this guidance.

Questions and Answers

Safety of Auditees

Question: How do auditors ensure auditees' safety especially after sensitive information has been revealed?

Answer: To minimise the risk of unintended consequences, auditors should limit note-taking and practice remembering important details from interviews. Additionally, auditors should manage their reactions and avoid appearing too surprised or expressing personal views on the situation. When requesting additional information from the management, auditors should consider involving more individuals in the request to avoid accidentally revealing the identity of informants. Ultimately, auditors should balance their obligation to provide accurate and reliable information with the need to protect the safety of auditees.

Auditor Independence

Question: In situations where audit sites are located far away, and clients offer food and accommodation, how can auditors maintain their independence beyond just using their own vehicles?

Answer: When audit sites are located far away, auditors may need to consider practical solutions to maintain their independence. It is important to evaluate other factors such as accommodations and meals. Accepting these benefits from clients can create a perception of a lack of independence, and clients may use this to their advantage. To mitigate these risks, auditors should use their professional judgement and assess the potential impact of accepting certain assistance from the client and make a decision based on the facts and circumstances of the situation.

Cost of Audit

Question: Who should bear the additional cost of transportation if the audit team was to make their own arrangement to the audit site?

Answer: Any additional costs should be discussed and agreed upon with the client beforehand. This could include costs associated with rental vehicles, fuel, tolls, or other expenses that are outside of the normal course of business. Auditors should clearly communicate the reason for the additional costs and ensure that the client understands the impact on the overall audit cost.

Recommendations

Drawing upon the insights gained from the practical exercises and feedback provided by the participants of the workshops, there are several recommendations for the Secretariat to consider.

- Conduct a comprehensive review and analysis of the feedback collected from various parties during the 18 month trial period to determine the feasibility of making the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance mandatory in the future.
- Emphasise the importance of conducting onsite audits within 6 months of the desk review, and provide guidance on how auditors can manage changes that occur during this time.
- Extend the socialisation of the RSPO Labour Auditing Guidance to RSPO grower members.
- Consider expanding the scope of auditors' independence beyond just vehicles, to include other factors such as fuel, accommodation and meals.
- Provide guidance for auditors on:
 - how to effectively communicate the benefits of proper labour auditing to the management unit being audited.
 - how to build trust with interviewees and effectively manage their reactions during interviews.
 - reasonable assistance that can be accepted from the management unit being audited in unavoidable situations.
