For this reason, we design all the new products with RSPO certified ingredients and at the same time we gradually update the existing recipes with sustainable palm oil / palm oil derivatives. Furthermore, starting from this year we will take notes of the volumes of palm oil / palm oil derivatives traded as recipes in our products as requested by the present ACOP.

Challenges

1 What significant economic, social or environmental obstacles have you encountered in the production, procurement, use and/or promotion of CSPO and what efforts did you make to mitigate or resolve them?

In the Italian market, RSPO is not considered a guarantee of the sustainability of the palm oil. Palm oil and palm oil based ingredients are considered unsustainable as matter of fact. For this reason, the majority of our National retailers prefer we to take off any oil palm related ingredients from our recipes.

2 In addition to the actions already reported in this ACOP how has your organization supported the vision of RSPO to transform markets in other ways? (e.g. Funding; Engagement with key stakeholders; Business to business education/outreach)

We trace only the RSPO certified ingredients for those retailers in UK that ask for it. Of course, introducing this requirement in our sourcing model promotes in turn the use of the sustainable oil along the supply chain. And this is the purpose of our UK clients.
