SUMMARY

Nominee Profile

Paul Wolvekamp has been active as Both ENDS' representative contributing the organisation's efforts as member of RSPO since 2005, committed to the mission of RSPO and an inclusive approach where local stakeholders – civil society, workers, small holders, communities - have a voice in transforming the sector. Paul works with a broad diversity of stakeholders, including CSOs, labour experts, the private sector and notably community representatives. Paul's continuous aim has been to help improve RSPO as an inclusive platform for shared learning and as an agile and effective certification body, which offers credibility based on a good standard and robust systems of capacity building for and scrutiny of implementation, which holds its members accountable – esp. when it comes when it comes to human rights and environmental integrity -, as well as supports the sector – plantations and small holders towards meaningful improvements which serve immediate and future economic, social and environmental goals; whereby palm oil production is well embedded in the social and ecological landscape, i.e. alongside other land uses required for conservation, food security, livelihoods and cultural integrity. Both ENDS works a.o. with RSPO offices (e.g. in India), private and civil society sectors to foster a dialogue with government to promote CSPO, both in terms of domestic production as imported palm oil feedstock. We promote dialogue with industry and government in consuming countries, including Dutch government, Dutch parliament as well as the European Commission and European Parliament, and local stakeholders, notably local NGOs and communities in sourcing countries. We explain RSPO's policies, challenges and measures taken in Dutch and EU political and public arena. Furthermore, as member of RSPO's Board of Governors we actively co-chair/contribute to a number of working groups and initiatives, including Assurance, Jurisdictional approach, Labour Task Force, Dispute Settlement Advisory Group, and RSPO Outreach to Intermediary Organisations (e.g. civil society, unions, women rights organisations), in producing countries.

Nomination for Board of Governors Election

17th General Assembly of the Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil (RSPO)

25th November 2020

Organisation Profile

Vision: Both ENDS envisions a world based on equitable relationships and consisting of sustainable livelihoods, and recognises the key role for CSOs in achieving this. Mission: Both ENDS works critically for social justice and a better environment by connecting and empowering CSOs - and fostering dialogue with other sectors. Both ENDS supports the work of socio-environmental organisations, primarily in the global South and the Central and Eastern European (CEE) countries. We support organisations through information, research, advocacy, campaigning, networking and capacity-building. The core of Both ENDS activities is in making connections, between South and North, environment and development, and between different sectors of society. With gender and climate as key crossing cutting themes. Both ENDS functions as a go-between to support individuals and social organisations all over the world whose specialization is ecological sustainability and social justice. The main focus is the realisation of sustainable forms of natural resource management and social and gender justice, and to promote policy making and adequate, democratic, governance.
